Pigeon Mountain WMA Permit Now Required!!!

All activity on Pigeon Mountain (including caving) now requires the possession of a "Georgia Outdoor Recreational Pass" which must be obtained online or by phone well before your visit. Annual passes are $19, but other options are available. See <http://www.georgiawildlife.com/Georgia-Outdoor-Recreational-Pass> for more information.

SPECIAL NOTICE: WHITE NOSE SYNDROME

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has recommended a voluntary moratorium, effective immediately, on all caving activity in states known to have hibernacula affected by WNS, and all adjoining states, unless conducted as part of an agency-sanctioned research or monitoring project. This includes Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia. The SCCI has officially closed access to some of its caves in Tennessee, as well as Fern Cave (Surprise Pit) and Anderson Cave in Alabama. A special permit policy has been developed for the remaining preserves. All caves in the Southern Region of the U.S. Forest Service are closed. The State of Tennessee has closed ALL caves on state land. This includes State parks, forests, TVA land and Wildlife Management areas. The Nature Conservancy has followed suit. Closed caves include favorites such as Rumbling Falls Cave and Camps Gulf Cave. Most Alabama and Georgia state-owned caves will remain open for visitation, but clean caving and a reduced amount of visitation has been requested.
